

Office Policy Statement

Psychological Services:

Psychotherapy involves the use of skilled interventions to resolve emotional, mental, and behavioral problems in individual, family, or group sessions. Psychotherapy has both benefits and risks. Benefits include reduced stress, better relationships, and resolution of specific problems. However, therapy might also lead you to experience stressful emotions or changes in your values or relationships. I will explain the purpose for therapeutic interventions and any potential stress I can foresee. You have a right to ask for a referral to a different therapist or agency if you are dissatisfied at any time. If you desire to change to a different therapist, you must first pay any outstanding bills. I ask that you also inform me of any concerns that you have about your therapy, as it would be optimal if we could resolve these together.

Confidentiality:

The laws of the State of Iowa require that most issues discussed during the course of therapy with a psychologist, social worker, or counselor be held confidential. Children have some of the same rights. However, parents of minor children also have a right to know the general content of therapy sessions with their children. The client (or parent of a minor child) may waive this privilege of confidentiality by signing an Authorization to Release Information form. Releases are frequently signed in order for a therapist to communicate with a physician, spouse, parent, attorney, or a previous counselor. If you learn at any time during the therapy process that information may be requested by a third party, please let me know as soon as possible.

Authorization to Release Information is NOT required in some circumstances:

I am legally obligated to release your Protected Health Information in several circumstances noted on the Notice of Privacy Practices Form (e.g., reports of or suspected cases of abuse, risk to self or others, for judicial or administrative proceedings, for health oversight activities, etc.)

Appointments:

It is a good idea to schedule appointments well in advance to be able to get the date and time that works best for your schedule. It is very important that you keep your appointment with me in order for counseling to be most effective. An appointment is like a contract between you and I. Once you make an appointment, please give it high priority. I understand that unforeseen circumstances or illnesses arise. However, if at all possible, contact at least 24 hours prior to an appointment if you must cancel or change the time. Messages can be left by phone or email 24 hours a day.

Unless restricted from doing so by a third party payer, I may bill you for missed appointments or those canceled without 24 hours notice. The charge for a missed appointment begins at $50.00 and may be $100.00 for subsequently missed appointments. If there are extenuating circumstances, you may not be billed for the session. Repeatedly missing appointments will result in a charge and may result in no longer being able to be seen for therapy or psychological services. If you are charged for a missed appointment, I ask that you pay for that session before scheduling or being seen for another session.

Communication with and from the Office

The office is typically open during the published business hours. If you are unable to reach Dr. Ihns during that time, please leave a message, as she may be in session with a client. It may take up to 24 hours for a return phone call. If you are in need of immediate assistance, please call 911 or the local crisis number. Dr. Ihns sometimes also finds it necessary to contact clients by email or text messaging. There are risks involved in such communication, as unintended others may read such correspondence. If you give permission for such contact, by providing an email or cell phone number, please be advised that the information shared through these means should be limited to minimize your exposure to unintended releases of information to others.

Please understand, email and text messaging, as with phone messages, are not to be used in a medical or mental health emergency, as Dr. Ihns cannot guarantee immediate access or response to such messages.

Charges, Fees, and Insurance

* If you have health insurance, part of your therapy expense may be covered. I will bill your primary insurance only (except for Medicare / Medicaid). Remember, you are responsible for all charges and no guarantee of insurance coverage is implied by the fact that I submit your insurance claims. This office and provider does not accept responsibility for collecting your insurance claims or for negotiating a settlement on a disputed claim.

* Co-payment is to be paid at the time of service.

* The person who seeks therapy, either for himself/herself or for a minor, is responsible for payment. Parents are responsible for account payments for their minor child. Accounts unpaid after 90 days may be released for collection. Clients will be billed for additional costs involved and a service charge of $20 will be added to their account if their account is released to collection. If no session has been scheduled for 60 days, I will understand that our therapeutic relationship has ended, unless otherwise agreed upon. If you want to continue counseling after that time, all outstanding bills will need to be paid before your file may be re-opened.

* If you or your child damages any office fixtures or furnishings, you will be responsible for the reimbursement cost of cleaning, repairing, or replacing the damaged fixture or furnishing prior to the next appointment.

What to Expect from Counseling or Therapy

What is counseling or therapy?

Counseling or therapy is focused conversation about things you want to change in your life. Counseling is most effective when it occurs in a relationship in which trust and care are established. Friends and relatives provide a type of counseling, as do clergy, teachers, and many others. Therapists and psychologists are different from others who may offer counseling or therapy because of our capacity to maintain objectivity and privacy, as well as our extensive training in psychology and human behavior.

If I go to counseling or therapy, does it mean that there is something wrong with me?

You have sought counseling because you feel uncomfortable with some aspect of your life. You are demonstrating courage and wisdom by seeking help to gain new skills or perspectives. Some people struggle because of events in their lives. Others may struggle because of biological and situational reasons. We will work together to identify the sources of your distress and address them with the appropriate resources, including referrals to other professionals or agencies, if necessary.

What can I expect from Dr. Ihns?

You can expect someone who:

- * will maintain the highest ethical and legal standards of confidentiality,
- * is interested in listening to your concerns,
- * is interested in helping you develop a better understanding of these concerns so that you may deal more easily and effectively with them,
- * will take you seriously,
- * will be open to discuss concerns,
- * will be willing to answer questions about the therapeutic relationship and my approach to counseling,
- * will help you explore options and discover strategies toward change,
- * will help, but will not do for you what you are capable of doing for yourself.

What sort of time commitments do I need to make for counseling?

I strive to offer therapeutic treatment as efficiently as possible. The number of sessions you need will depend on the severity and nature of your presenting concerns. I can give you an estimate of how many sessions it may take to address your goals.

What can I do to benefit most from counseling?

- * Be ready to focus on a specific problem or issue
- * Set clear and specific goals
- * Attend your sessions regularly and take an active part in them
- * Let me know if you will be late or are unable to attend a session
- * Talk about what is bothering you as openly and honestly as you can
- * Complete any tasks or homework assignments which you may be asked to do
- * Be open to trying new or different approaches for dealing with your concerns
- * Talk openly with me about your progress in counseling. I am most interested in you benefiting from counseling. There are many ways to provide counseling and I can modify my methods to be most effective for you.
- * Apply your new insights and growth in your daily activities
